CITIES on the FRONTLINE

MIGRATION AND RESILIENCE, THE MOVE BOOK

📅 November 11, 2021
⏰ 08.00 AM EST – 02.00 PM CET – 09.00 PM SIN/KUL
Migration waves and our open door policy towards migration
Reasons for migrating, reasons to promote migration

Why people move?
- Climate related
- Economically induced
- Politically triggered

Why cities thrive on migration?
- Improve productivity
- Increase innovation
- Wealth growth
BA: a great city to live in

World class cultural environment
Livable, safe and diverse city
Walkable and climatically engaged city
BA: a great city to study and work

International students boost visitors economy

World class public and private universities
Building a resilient approach towards Venezuela’s humanitarian and migration crisis

Fuente: Plataforma de Coordinación para Refugiados y Migrantes de Venezuela OIM-ACNUR
Migrant profile: talented and highly skilled

Venezuelans highest educational degree consigned when arriving at customs (DNM 2019)

- Universitarios: 51%
- Secundarios: 32%
- Terciarios: 16%
- Primarios: 4%
- No posee: 8%

Highest educational degree acquires in people over 20 years old for city of buenos aires (GCBA 2010)

- Universitarios: 36%
- Secundarios: 44%
- Terciarios: 5%
- Primarios: 5%
- No posee primario: 0%
- No posee: 5%

Late work inclusion: migrants take over a year to achieve a working position according to their skills

- +40% unemployed during the first three months
- +70% of workers of delivery platforms come from Venezuela
Why approach migrations from a resilience perspective?

TRADITIONAL PLANNING
- Existing devices for the approach
- Informal coordination between Areas

RESILIENCE APPROACH
- Extraordinary pressure on city services
  - Enhance the advantages and assets that migration brings
  - Anticipate future shocks and stresses, preparing the City
  - New devices to tackle complex problems
  - Formalized coordination that guarantees a transversal approach

POLITICAL CRISIS IN VENEZUELA INCREASES
- Flow of people entering the city
- Vulnerability of the migrant population
- Social cohesion

BUSINESS AS USUAL
- Today

Time
- +5 yrs
KPIs

Intolerance

Segregation

Low integration

Marginalization

Perception

Social Cohesion

Stakeholder engagement

City Planning

Political Leadership

Productivity increase

Equal access to city's services

Talent and opportunities

Participation and Engagement

Fuente: WEF. octubre 2017